

Campus organizations antagonistic to fraternity ideals have at various times deposited blots on the shields of Fraternity Row. Chapters otherwise sound have been undermined by such organizations as Theta Nu Epsilon, a mock fraternity of Greek parasites worshipping at the shrine of Bacchanalian hoodlumism; Kappa Beta Phi, which originated at Hobart College, pirated the Phi Beta Kappa key and name and extolled ignorance; and Quo Vadis, which trained its members in the accomplishments of the hobo.

The CODE
of
BETA THETA PI

Being
 THE CONSTITUTION and
 THE LAWS
 OF THE FRATERNITY

TWENTIETH EDITION

1972

CHAPTER XIII

MISCELLANEOUS

SECTION 1. Membership in Certain Societies Forbidden: No active member of any chapter shall accept or retain membership in any such intercollegiate and interfraternity society as Theta Nu Epsilon or Kappa Beta Phi; and if any active member of any chapter shall accept membership in any such intercollegiate and interfraternity society, the Board of Trustees, on presentation of satisfactory proof thereof, shall authorize the General Secretary to drop the name of such member from the roll of the fraternity.

(Xref. C. Art. II Sec. 7)